

Dr Robert Blyth

Positions and responsibilities

Curator, Imperial & Maritime History
National Maritime Museum
Greenwich
London SE10 9NF

Research interests

The South Asian diaspora around the Indian Ocean and its political, economic and social consequences for the British Empire.

The challenges and opportunities presented to museum through the display and interpretation of the slavery and the slave trade.

Summary of relevant publications

R.J. Blyth, The Empire of the Raj: India, Eastern Africa and the Middle East, 1858-1947 (Palgrave Macmillan: Cambridge Imperial and Post-colonial Studies, 2003).

Articles on British India's connection with the western Indian Ocean in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.